

Undergraduate and master's education at CSE

What the new model is all about...

Background

- Number of courses at the department needs more efficient decision-making, shorter feedback loops and effective follow-up
- Breadth and volume of courses at the department makes it hard to use vice-head of department of education as one responsible for all education
- No incitements for the divisions to have a good control and balance in the economy for the undergraduate education
- Head of department has initiated investigation on how to improve the situation

Education organization within CSE

Summary of responsibilities I/II

- Head of division is responsible for
  - Economy of the courses (new)
  - Resource planning
  - Quality assurance (new)
  - Competence development, pedagogical development
- Vpref.gru is responsible for
  - Coordination between different divisions (new)
  - Pedagogical projects
  - Common routines, rules, etc.
  - Decide which division takes responsibility for a course (new)
  - Coordination with programs

Summary of responsibilities II/II

- Director of studies
  - Plan the courses using the resources in the division (provided by the head of division)
  - Plan the teaching for staff based on the course of the division
  - Coordinate course planning
  - Support head of division and VPref in contacts with programs/education areas
- Course responsible/Examiner
  - Develop and maintain course plans
  - Responsible for course quality
  - Execute the course, follow up on quality, report resources
  - Support directors of studies in finding assistants (suggest assistants)
  - Responsible for the course instance to comply with the course plan
  - Guarants and responsible for the examination procedure

What does that mean in practice?

- Divisions can keep their surplus and use it for investments in the coming years
- Courses have a long-term affiliation to divisions
  - The decisions for allocation of courses are meant to be valid for a few years at a time
- Division's surplus can be used for pedagogical development projects for the coming years
- Purchases for courses like assistants, software, books, equipment (except thesis courses) are done by the division
  - Head of division decides upon this